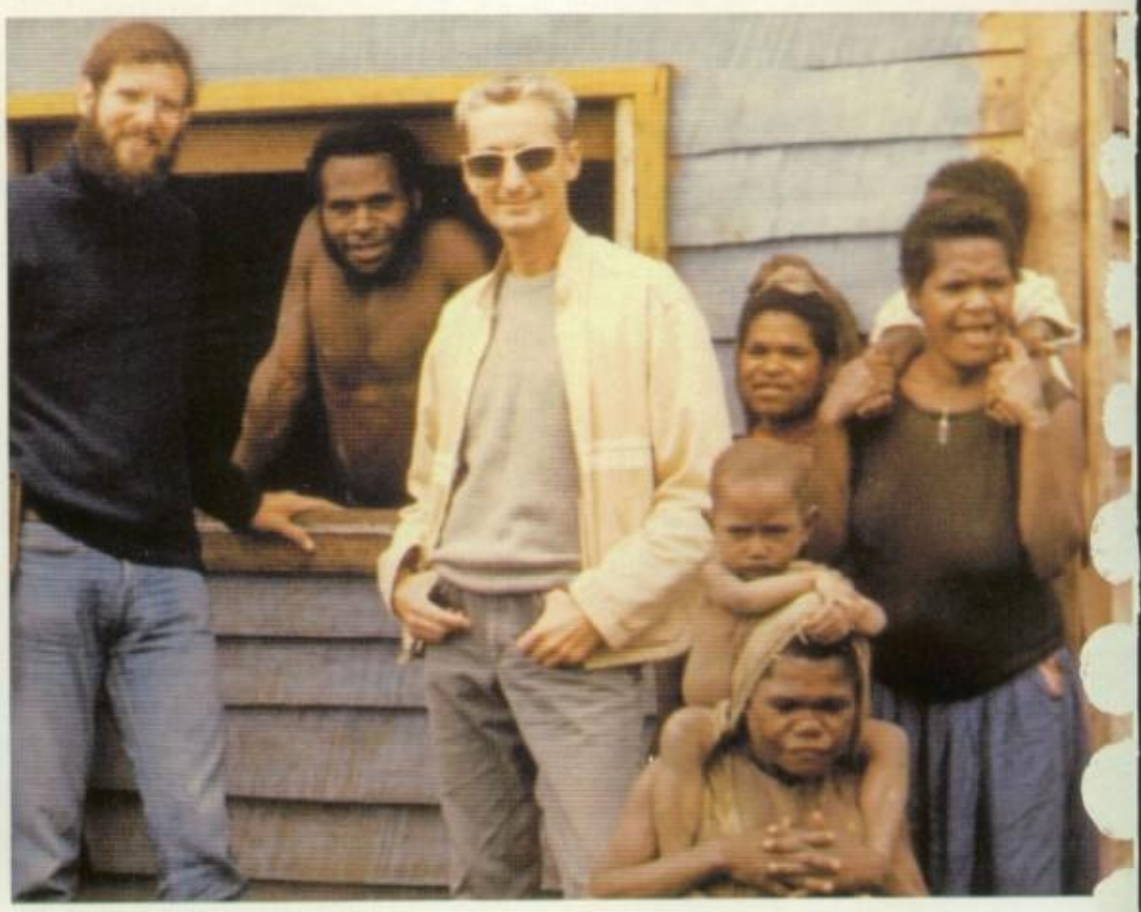
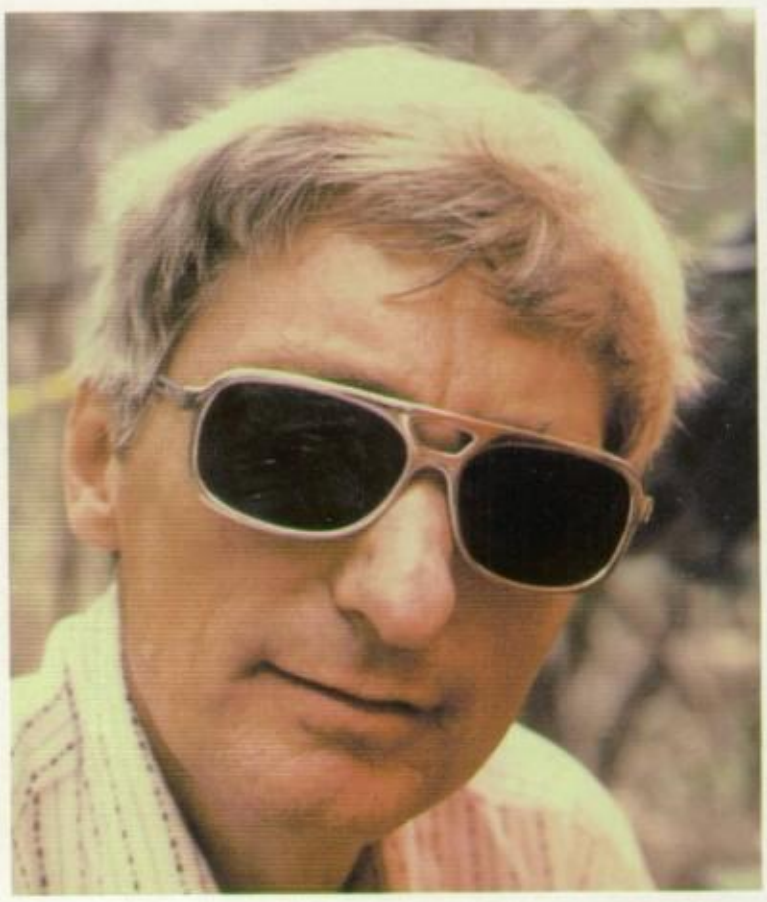
Man of the Year





Mr. G. Carl Buessow is a highly respected and dedicated member of the Hackley community. He has been the Assistant Headmaster for Academic Affairs for 18 years, and up until this past year he served as the Director of the Middle School.

Since his arrival at Hackley in 1954 he has proven himself to be a great innovator, interested in establishing educational and enjoyable student programs. In 1970, Mr. Buessow developed the science seminar which later received a special Presidential Citation. Other programs such as the Requa House archaeological dig and the introduction of a Mini Course Day in the Middle School are among the various activities instituted by him.

Along with his innovations at Hackley, Mr. Buessow is also interested in the study of primitive cultures and has traveled throughout the world with his wife, Mrs. Peggi Buessow.

It is with great pleasure that the senior class dedicates the 1982 Hackley Hilltop to Mr. G. Carl Buessow.

Remember Coming Home from summer fun and camps? It was definitely Something Short of Paradise, because the Monkey Business had to stop. Everyone had to finish the Last Detail of preparation for the first day of school. So on the first day, everybody was ready to be Going In Style. The monotony of coming to school Time After Time had begun once more. The football team got psyched for their season and after each consecutive victory, they said to each other, "Let's Do It Again."

October arrived and the seniors began to have Nice Dreams of college. They hoped their SAT scores wouldn't make these dreams go Up In Smoke. On Alumni Day, Hackley graduates of the past reminisced about The Way We Were. The football team was in high spirits as they crushed their opponents, leaving the field looking like the Black Hole. The ninth grade left for their archaeology dig at Requa House with Mr. Van Leer, hoping to experience some Close Encounters with Alien objects. On Halloween there was a full Paper Moon and the students couldn't Wait Until Dark.

M. Bauer, A. Kirstein, P. Wallace, L. Kawer

November brought Parents' Day, Victory to the Hackley teams and All That Jazz. On Fast Day, the students gave up their lunches; everyone survived. The next day brought deliverance,and the students returned to their Chicken Soup. Thanksgiving came and everyone received his share of a 4,000,000 Dollar Duck! The seniors still felt the Sting of college applications, but soon they were on The Other Side of the Mountain.

Christmas came right on schedule . . . Thank God It's Friday, Because the first dance of the year was a great success.
A winter concert when The Music Man was brought out in each participant . . .
The new season: the Body Heat of the wrestling room, Inside Moves and perhaps a One on One in hoop. The Hackley fish took their first plunge into The Deep, working out for the Great Race . . .
When Time Ran Out, vacation began.
The Paper Chase — What is Tragedy?

New Year's Eve rolled around and it was Terror by Night. We were welcomed back on January 4. The thought of exams was in the air and everyone was walking on a Bridge Over Troubled Water. Everyone came Dressed to Kill on Black and Gray Day. Exams arrived — it was certainly no Joyride. When exams were finally over, you could hear the Murmur of the Hearts and the famous line, Oh God! Everyone wanted his Last Rites read. Following exams there were many ski trips planned; there was Something for Everyone.

Of all The Four Seasons, February is the dreariest. Waiting for March vacation, we found ourselves watching the clock Moment by Moment. Valentine's Day was a pleasant change — it came Gift Wrapped with carnations delivered to The Chosen, lucky ones. The Ivy League Wrestling Championships were held here and everyone got A Piece of the Action. The seventh grade made their annual excursion to Washington, leaving with Great Expectations. Many people participated in the Talent Show. The Sound of Music was in their ears and Dancin' in their feet — we were all expecting Something Big. Fortunately, we all survived February; unfortunately, there was not necessarily an Absence of Malice.

Trip Day marked the beginning of March. The Big Wednesday, March 3, was a day of activities and sights in various places. By mid-March, the two week long vacation had begun. Different trips to Austria, England, and Killington were enjoyed by many students. Also, many students, collectively known as The Swarm (of Hornets, of course), invaded the beaches of Florida. The remaining student body was Home from the Hill, and enjoyed Hardly Working. On March 27, the junior class took the infamous SATs. With a Death Wish for the people at Princeton, juniors gave their Personal Best and went Bananas over filling in the little ovals. Upon finishing the test, the exasperated students wondered Which Way Is Up? Before returning to school, everyone wished that it were Same Time, Next Year.

The first day back at school was A Dog Day Afternoon, and the students were not behaving like Ordinary People. There were many seniors who were reported Missing due to senior projects, but the rest of us returned Les Miserables. With the beginning of Spring, athletes began Running for Lacrosse, Baseball, Tennis, and Track, hoping to look like The Professionals. The Chase began in April for school offices, each candidate proclaiming, And Justice for All. At the end of April, The Wild Bunch and The Boys in the Band left on the Midnight Express for Tennessee to display their talents at the World's Fair. We all leave April behind with the question of the Prom in our minds.

May sent the Geology II Searchers on a quest for Meteors. The Choirboys gave their Spring concert. Most memorable of all was Prom Night: a lengthy Shampoo, O Lucky Man, and a Sparkle in every eye. The prom quickly passed, leaving only Stardust Memories in its place. The Senior Picnic . . . Cornbread, Earl, and Me. At the athletic assembly, A Star Is Born, and finally, on the fourth of June, Graduation. Hand in Hand, the seniors of '82 Walk Proud. Well, the school year of '81-'82 is over — it's Summertime!

One day last fall I asked the first grade about the Wizard of Oz. I told the little munchkins to use their brains and remember how the story went. Though hoping they would gain enough courage to answer with a roar, I just didn't have the heart to push them too far. But I did.

It was too late. Their minds were somewhere over the rainbow. It had gotten too carried away. The school was suddenly an Emerald City. Those aggravating chimps started flying around the room. The experience was definitely a horse of a different color.

At last they stopped and returned to reality. It was over. We concluded that wherever you may travel, there's no place like home.

Goodbye Yellowbrick road.

Cinderella

Once upon a time, there were two Hackley kindergarten classes. Each class had either seen or read the wonderful fairytale Cinderella, and I would like to share with you their opinions of the story.

When I visited their tiny kingdom on the Hackley hilltop and asked the children some questions, I received some very comical answers. I asked them what their favorite part was. A few romantic girls liked the marriage of Cinderella and the prince best. Others liked the part when the glass slipper was tried on every lady in the kingdom. I was surprised to hear that one child enjoyed the scene when the prince tried on the slipper, and that another liked the part when Cinderella turned into a dress. I was even more fascinated to hear that one boy's favorite part was when the coach turned into a horse and danced with the prince. It was then I realized it was time to ask a different question.

"Would you like to have a fairy godmother?" I asked with curiosity. Many of the children said yes. I then asked them why. One girl replied that a fairy godmother would give her pretty dresses and hats, while another said that she'd like to be turned into a hamburger. A boy answered that if he had a fairy godmother, he could fly like Santa Claus, but a second, more ambitious boy said his fairy godmother would turn him into Superman. Again, I felt I must change the subject.

I then ventured to ask them, "Would you like to be a prince or princess?" All the girls wished they were princesses, and most of the boys wanted to be princes, except one who wanted to be a dog, and another, a cat.

My next question was, "What did you think was the funniest part in the story?" Expecting a variety of answers, I was not disappointed. Some thought the idea of going to a ball was funny. Others thought the part when the shoe didn't fit was funny. One boy said the funniest part was when the dog went up the stairs and the bird couldn't carry his tail. When one boy excitedly told me about the part when the stepsister put on the slipper and pushed the man into the piano and out the window, I was becoming rather confused.

Then the children began to question me. One girl wondered how the ladies kept their cone hats on and a boy wanted to know how lizards could turn into coachmen. I wasn't quite sure what to reply. Then a child asked me why the driver of the coach turned into a rake at midnight; I was now at a complete loss of words. All I could do was laugh, and laugh I did as I waved goodbye to the children. I was certain of only one thing: that all the children loved the fairytale of Cinderella.

The varsity girls' soccer team, led by coach Phil Variano, had a good but unsuccessful season. Although they only won two games, which were against Storm King and Sacred Heart, most of the games were lost by a one goal differential. Senior Maria Szabo was the high scorer for the team with help in scoring by Rebecca Rubin. They were backed by excellent defense from Senior Lalla McCollester, the team MVP Margie McNaughton, first year goalie Meg Cimino, and senior veteran goalie Malaak Shabazz. The team will be losing many seniors including: Karen Weisenseel, Linda Cimino, Ingrid Sauer, Leslie Weiss, Liz Massie and Rachel Stern. However, there are many up and coming players to fill these positions for the 1982 soccer season.

Victory

Led by coach David Allison, the Hackley Boys' Soccer team finished the year with a 7-6-1 record. Although the team got off to a good start by winning the first few games, it could not hold its first place position because of its annual mid-season slump. Yet, Mr. Allison called the season "fabulous" because of the team's ability to finish strongly.

The team was an inexperienced one with only four returning players. The highlight of the season came when hackley defeated its rival, Trinity. Last year, Trinity was the team that put a blemish on Hackley's perfect record; the Hornets returned the favor this year by handing Trinity its only defeat of the season.

Another important event was Hackley's participation in the annual All-Star game. Eight members from the Hackley squad were chosen to compete. They were: David Simon, Farzad Khosrowshahi, Toshiaki Suzuki, David Paris, Stephano Bonfiglio, Kaveh Khosrowshahi, Mehrad Khosrowshahi, and David Britton. The last three players were selected All-League in their respective positions.

Because the strength of the team is now concentrated around juniors and sophomores, the team should be strong for the next few years.

The 1981 field hockey team had a winning season with a 6-5 record. Losing five seniors from last year forced Coach Cardillo "Armadillo" to rebuild. Captains Gigi Chavez and Jackie Merl were very helpful in leading this difficult task. Many losses were extremely close; such as the 0-1 defeats against archrivals Fieldston and Sacred Heart, and the double overtime heart breaking defeat in the team's first Ivy League tournament against Riverdale. Yet, the Varsity Field Hockey team demonstrated total skill in shutting out Daycoft (6-0) and out-played long standing rivals Masters (4-1).

However, the record of the team camouflages its ability. The Hornets often dominated their games. Four year Empire States player and high scorer Gigi Chavez and newcomer, second highest scorer Evy Craston dazzled the other teams with their stick work and scoring ability. The offensive force of the team was well distributed from left wing sure shot Kelly Quinn to Linda "Jets" Paris. On defense, Nancy Goler and Meg Maher often flashed by their opponents leaving smoke and turning heads. Shut-out goalie Jackie Merl and Jana Craston made the balls let in the goal few and far between. As much as these talents helped win games, so did the confidence-booster manager Sarah Williams.

Seniors Kelly Quinn, Gigi Chavez, Jackie Merl, Melissa Baten, and Kelly McBride will be missed by next year's team. However, next year's field hockey team looks forward to being a mean, lean winning machine.

The Longest Yard

Another hard day.

The Hornets in uniform.

With the end of this season, it seems as if the last pages of a colorful era in Hackley football have been written. The past three years combined provided for one of the most successful periods in Hackley football. Over this span the team won all but four games.

Although Hackley displayed exceptional prowess in putting points on the scoreboard, it dominated games by limiting opponents to single digits. Led by senior standout, Robert Loftus, the notorious Hornet Steel Curtain curtailed the opponents' drives giving time to the gruesome twosome — Bobby Light and Roland Foster — to pile up the touchdowns.

The Hornets started off the season with a bang by compiling a 4-0 record. Then came the annual "Super Saturday"; on a beautiful sunny afternoon, the Hackley alumni gathered to witness the confrontation — Hackley vs. Poly. Hackley was in for revenge; displaying superior stamina, the team fell short of completing an incredible comeback bid. The final score was 14-14.

Hackley continued its winning ways by defeating Riverdale and Christ the King. The Hornets went into the final Saturday with a chance of attaining a perfect season. Yet, the dice did not roll right. On the first Hackley drive, Foster fumbled and injured his ankle; in the middle of the second quarter, quarterback Bobby Light injured his knee on a running play ... and Hackley was trailing Horace Mann at halftime.

The Hornets lost this last game and the efforts of obtaining an undefeated season went down the drain. Anyhow, history lends itself to repetition and let us hope that Robert Akin and Pete DeCambre can make such a task much easier for Bob Pickert's 1982 squad.

The Cross Country team suffered through a relatively unproductive year as they posted a four and ten season. It was evident that the loss of experienced runners to graduation would affect the team's performance. Seniors Jody Targove, Mike Mironer, and Mel Platt attempted to guide the team to victory lane, but hampered by injuries, the team had to rely on its underclassmen.

The performance of the underclassmen was more than expected. Ross Towbin, Chuck Toepfer, and Naohiro Saito improved tremendously over the course of the season. These three runners will make up the heart of next year's team; they will try to make the memory of this season less vivid by returning to make the Hackley tradition of winning a reality.

The Only Game in Town

Andy is ready for a shot

The new news this winter wasn't the new color "alligators"; it was rather the inevitable arrival of the preppiest of all sports to Hackley. Indeed, the game of squash made its way to the bounds of Hackley School in 1981.

The new sport attracted close to ten members. Considering the lack of adequate practice time, the players showed a lot of improvement. Steve Fields was the number one player on the team. Andy Seibert and Derek Van Eck provided the experience.

There are very many underclassmen on this team. Look for the team to improve upon its 0-4 record next year.

The Deep

The perennially strong swim team posted a 9-1 record. Their only loss was to a strong Horace Mann side by a slim two point margin. The girls were undefeated and they ended their season by winning the Trinity Invitational Tournament.

Anchored by Jason Troiano, Andrea Snyder, and Doug Bridges, the team won nine meets with plenty to spare. Coach Nate Allison predicted an undefeated season and indeed he almost had it called. The team had a lot of depth, a lot of "no-names" who made the season valuable.

Mr. Allison was so incredibly impressed with the team's overall performance that he awarded the entire team with the MVP. Seniors Jason Troiano, Doug Bridges, and Andrea Snyder provided much needed points as they rallied to place first in individual competition. Underclassmen Ira Silverman, Bruce Dunbar, and Tom Grossman provided backup depth; these three underclassmen will be the nucleus of a new and emerging Hackley swim team.

The wrestling team provided one of the most exciting seasons in Hackley history. Hackley had one of the hardest schedules of the schools in the area and the wrestlers had a comparatively difficult time putting points on the board.

The team's subpar record was overshadowed by incredible individual performances. Pete Decambre dropped from the heavyweight category to 167 pounds. The 80 pound loss of weight had little effect on Pete's performance as he posted a 26-4 mark. Pete was named the team MVP after he finished the season on a strong note by taking first place in the Ivies, first in the states, and an unprecedented fourth place in the nationals.

The team was anchored by first year senior wrestler Bob Loftus. He had a 19-3 mark with 10 pins. Surprisingly, he won both the Fairchesters and the Ivies and managed to place second in the states. Other standouts included Eric Council at 135 pounds; he came in second in the Fairchesters and third in the Ivy Invitationals. Ross Towbin managed third place in the Ivies and fourth in the Fairchesters while wrestling at a tough 148 pound division.

With the departure of Charlie Detorres, Larry Zelvin, Pete Ognibene, and Bob Loftus, the team loses much needed experience. But, up and coming underclassmen should be able to fill the vacancy and the Hackley wrestling team might indeed have its best season next year.

One on One

The boys' basketball team had a successful rebuilding year; they ended the season with a respectable 7-12 mark in a very tough Ivy League. The strength of the team was concentrated on sophomores with only two players returning from last year.

Senior Bobby Light was the leader on the court. Coach Hummel acknowledged Bobby's tremendous effort on the court by awarding him the MVP.

The underclassmen played a great role in the team's relative success. Lacking great height, the team relied on hustle and defense in order to keep the games from running out of hand. Kimathi Evans was the leading scorer; he was also chosen as an all-league player mainly because of his great defensive plays. Tom Anglero, Harry Lawson, Eric Williams, Doug Hill, and David Britton are underclassmen with great potential. Coach Hummel hopes that he can put this potential into work next year so that the team can compete more effectively. This was a learning season. As coach Hummel emphasized: "There is much hope for next year."

The Girls' Basketball Team posted a 10-8 mark as they came in third in the Fairchester League Tournament. The team was handicapped throughout the season having only two girls coming off the bench.

Sophomore sensation, Margaret Scarcella led the team with approximately five hundred points. The team MVP, she posted a game high 47 points in one of the encounters during the year. Margaret had help from assist leaders Laura Straus and Captain Gigi Chavez. Gigi helped balance the team and was chosen to the All-Fairchester team.

The team was strong on the boards with Rebecca Rubin and Evy Craston pulling down the rebounds. They had help from the Bobbsey Twins, Jane Shibetti and Jackie Stern. The one-two punch of these two sophomores provided the spirit and enthusiasm that carried the team through the long season. Look forward to a very successful season out of this very young squad next year.

Damn Yankees

This year, the baseball team was unable to match last year's remarkable record; however, they played extremely well and usually lost by a close margin.

Under the guidance of coach Mr. Davis and co-captains Robert Loftus and Roland Foster, the team tried to find some unity and spirit to hold it together. Newcomer Kevin Dames provided great skill at first base and returning sophomore Tom Anglero added his finesse to the diamond. Robert Loftus, Erik Council, and newcomer Jeff Fernholtz handled the pitching extremely adeptly. There was a great deal of rotation among the players and the positions they played as catcher Derek Van Eck was the only player on the team to play the same position in each game.

With the upcoming freshmen and sophomores who joined the team this year, Mr. Davis has high hopes for the team in the years to come.

Coach Randy McNaughton led the softball team to a record of 12-3. The Hornets tied for the lead in the Fairchester League and came in second to Poly in a tough Ivy League. Of the three losses, two were to a tough Poly team.

Vicky Wank was the leader on the hill as she pitched almost every game putting together eleven victories. Ingrid Sauer was the slugging leader on the team leading the girls in total bases. Linda Cimino was the most consistent performer batting at an even .400 on the season. These three girls were all-league and Linda was awarded the MVP.

The underclassmen played an important role in the team's successful season. Shortstop Margaret Scarcella was the co-leader in batting at .419 and displayed "golden-glove" ability at a difficult defensive position. Margie McNaughton was the best bunter in the league as she put together a .419 batting average. With such explosive bats returning next year, there is no limit at what the softball team could accomplish.

Youth Runs Wild

The girls' lacrosse team had a fairly good season establishing an even record of 6-6. The team split twelve games defeating all private school opponents and only bowing to strong public school sides.

The highlight of the season came when the girls defeated Scarsdale 7-6; in the last few years Hackley had lost very close matches to this same team. Throughout the season the girls played hard during the first half, but let up considerably in the last quarter. This stamina problem was the real handicap of the team.

The team is losing seniors Lalla McCollester, Kelly Quinn, Karen Weisenseel, Kim Krasne, Alessandra Ippolito, and this year's captain and MVP Gigi Chavez (who averaged well above three goals scored per game).

The Hackley lacrosse team showed incredible will in coming back after last season's disastrous performance. Mr. Dukehart along with assistants Mr. Forster and Mr. Reed turned the team around. The team won the Ivies and came in a respectable third in the Fairchesters. The overall record was eleven wins with only three losses.

Of the three losses during the season, two were to Rye. The first encounter of the season resulted in a heartbreaking loss to a determined Rye side; Hackley led throughout the match only to be scored upon five times in approximately the same number of minutes. After such a defensive lapse, the team came back strongly wiping out their opponents including a 16-0 "mop-job" of the Hornets of Hamden Hall.

Then came the game with perenially strong Brunswick. Hackley played well during the first half, but did not have quite enough to stop the Brunswick offense; the final score was a lopsided victory for the visitors. The team followed this loss with a long winning streak only to have it broken by Rye in the semifinals of the Fairchester tournament.

Kimathi Evans and Marc Dorfman made all-league. Rob Crispi, the dependent netminder, who had a shutout during the course of the season, was honorable mention all-league. So was leading scorer and freshman sensation Herb Allen. But the MVP want to veteran playmaker Doug Bridges; he displayed good stick control and was also honorable mention all-league.

Sixty percent of the regulars are freshmen and sophomores. The future seems to have good things in hand for Hornets' Lacrosse. As Morton Dukehart puts it: "The Hack is back in LaX."

The golf team displayed consistency in their play as they had an above average season. Practices were short and far between and there were continuous uncertainties concerning the ladder. Midway through the season, the ladder was established when Charlie Polsen retired from the team and thus forfeited his number one position to brother Eddie.

Seniors Richard Schwartz and Mel Platt were durable performers. Junior Ed Polsen had his woods, irons, and putter on the mark playing first on the ladder. He was all-league and for his consistent play was given the MVP.

The girls' tennis team had a strange season in 1982. They had a pregnant coach, no bus, and worst of all no courts to play on. Problems? Definitely. Solutions? Hard to come by.

There are no seniors on the team. The team is led by co-captains Robyn Rituno and Shevaun Mackie who were respectively first and second on the ladder. The team has two promising freshmen in Amanda Baten and Maria Giovannelli.

The highlight of the season was the team dinner. Let us hope that the girls can do a little bit more than this because everyone hates to see such talent squandered on dinner tables. With ready courts next year and a full returning team, the girls look competitive.

The boys' tennis team led by coach Phil Variano had a 4-8 record. They came in a respectable third in the Fairchester League. Considering that Mr. Variano had to run around trying to find courts for play and also considering the time allotted for practice, the team did fairly well.

The team was undefeated at home, finishing the season on a strong note. Sophomore Brandon Carrey was all-league singles. Rich Yaffa was third on the ladder and showed adequate consistency. The MVP of the season was newcomer Mike Felcher who had a 9-2 record.

The team is comprised of mostly underclassmen. Graduating this year will be David Paris and Andy Seibert. Yet the team looks strong for next year with Felcher, Carrey, Yaffa, Nakamuru, Toepfer, and Wechsler returning.

Two grins from teammates

The track team was faced with a deflation in interested parties and hence had only thirteen members competing. Yet, the team tried hard to compensate the lack of quantity with exceptional quality. Such a task was hard since Hackley entered each meet already taking one in the loss column.

Of the individual performers, Thanasios Demetrius Pardalis was all-league in the javelin. The Hornets' 880 relay team of David Hall, Ross Towbin, and Stefano Bonfiglio won all-league honors. Yet, the star of the team was veteran runner John Taylor. He compiled exceptional statistics while breaking a few records. He was all-league in almost every short distance event including the 100 yard dash and the high and low hurdles.

If more students come out for track, John Taylor, this year's MVP, will look forward to leading the team to a more successful season.

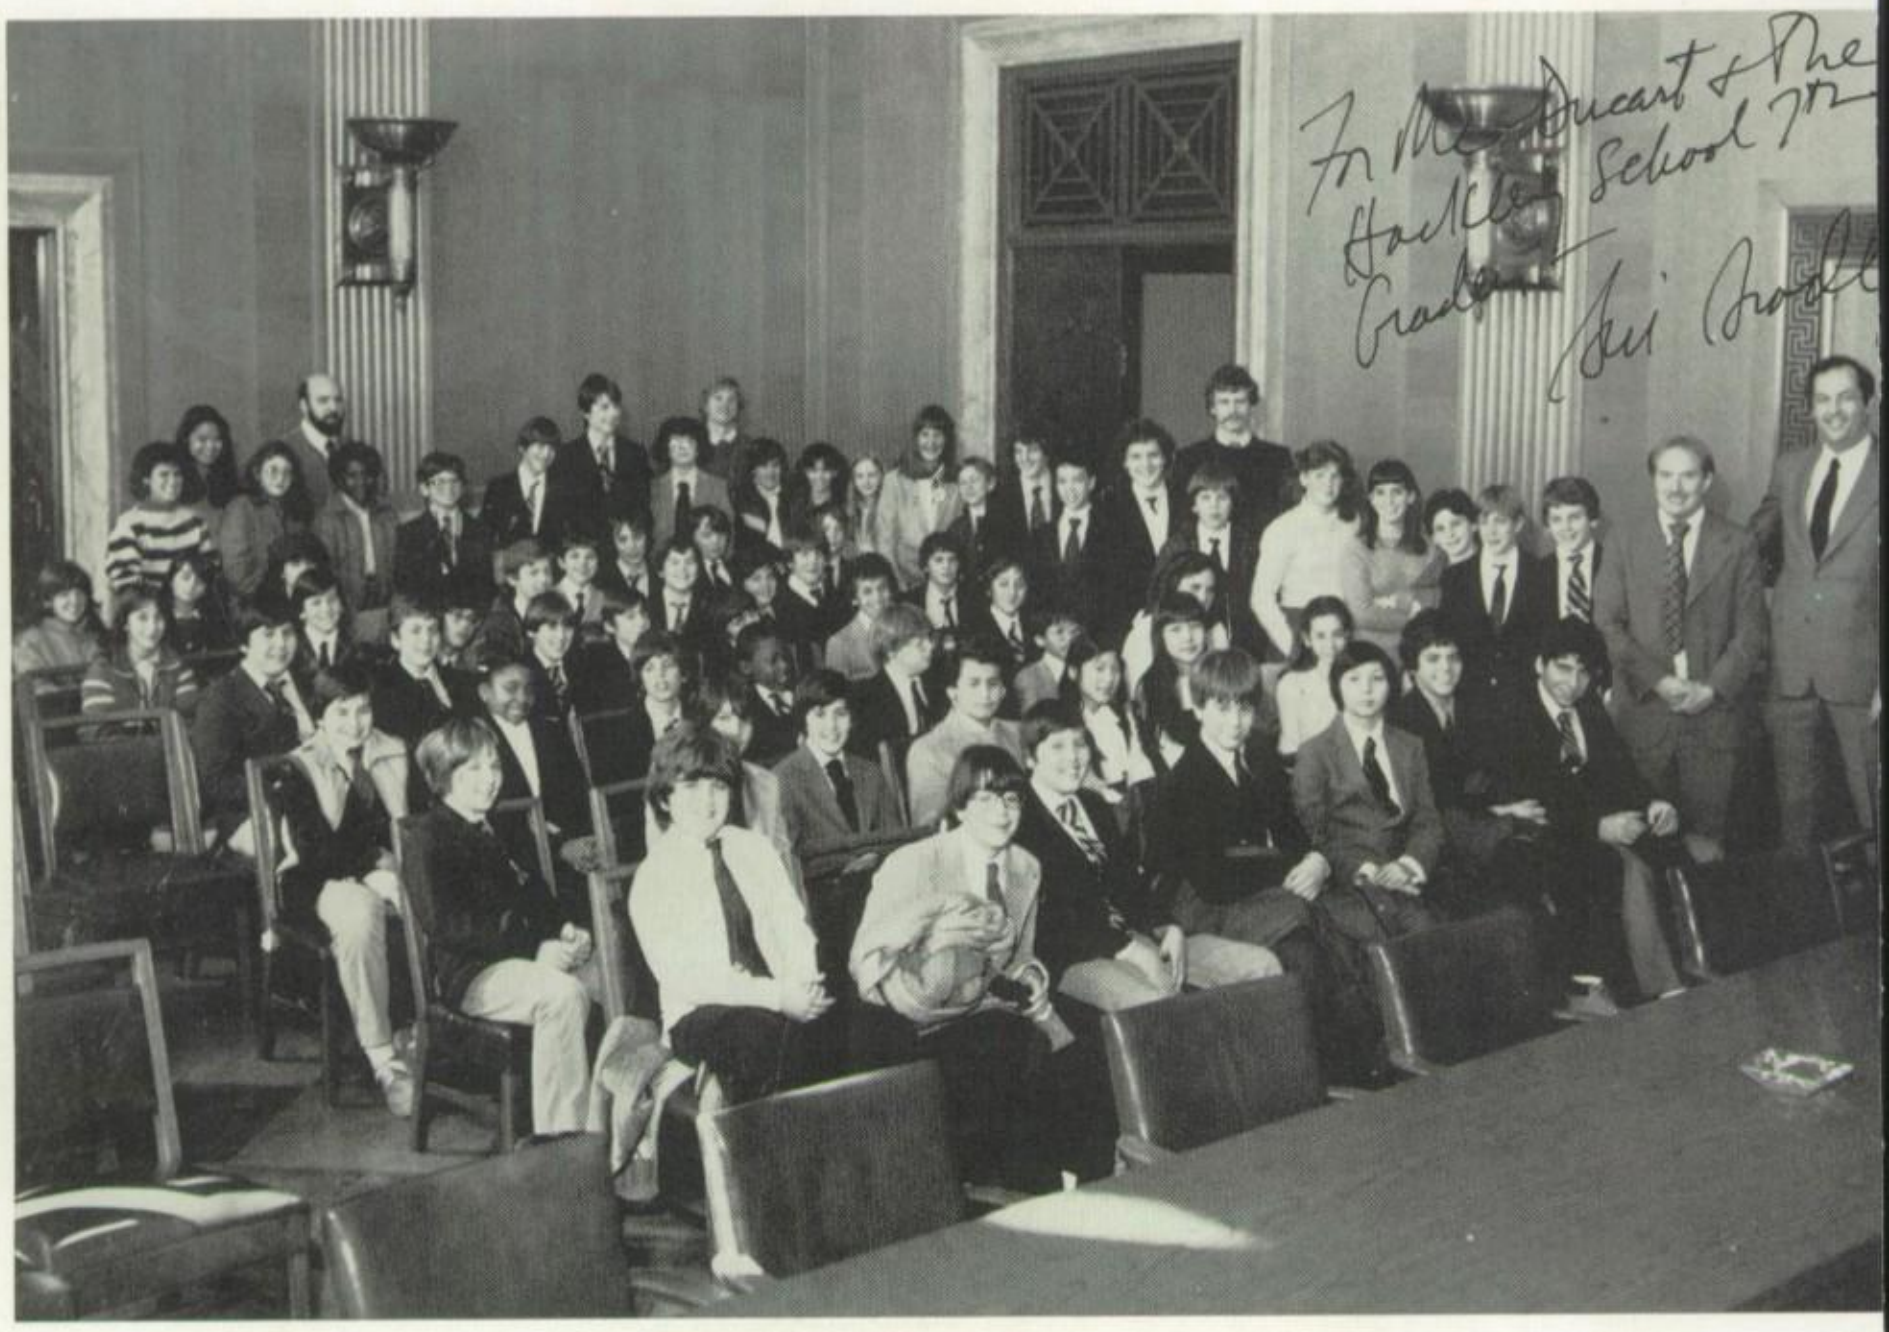
Mr. Smith Goes to Washington



On February 24th, the seventh grade traveled to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia, for four days of educational sightseeing. The trip, headed by Messrs. Morton Dukehart, Robert Hummel, John Van Leer, Philip Variano, and student chaperones Pamela Carlos and Jacqueline Merl, included visits to the Capitol, the Smithsonian Institute and Colonial Williamsburg. The highlight of the trip was the visit with New Jersey Senator Bill Bradley who discussed politics and basketball with the students. Despite returning home tired, all agreed that it was a thoroughly enjoyable trip which will be long remembered.

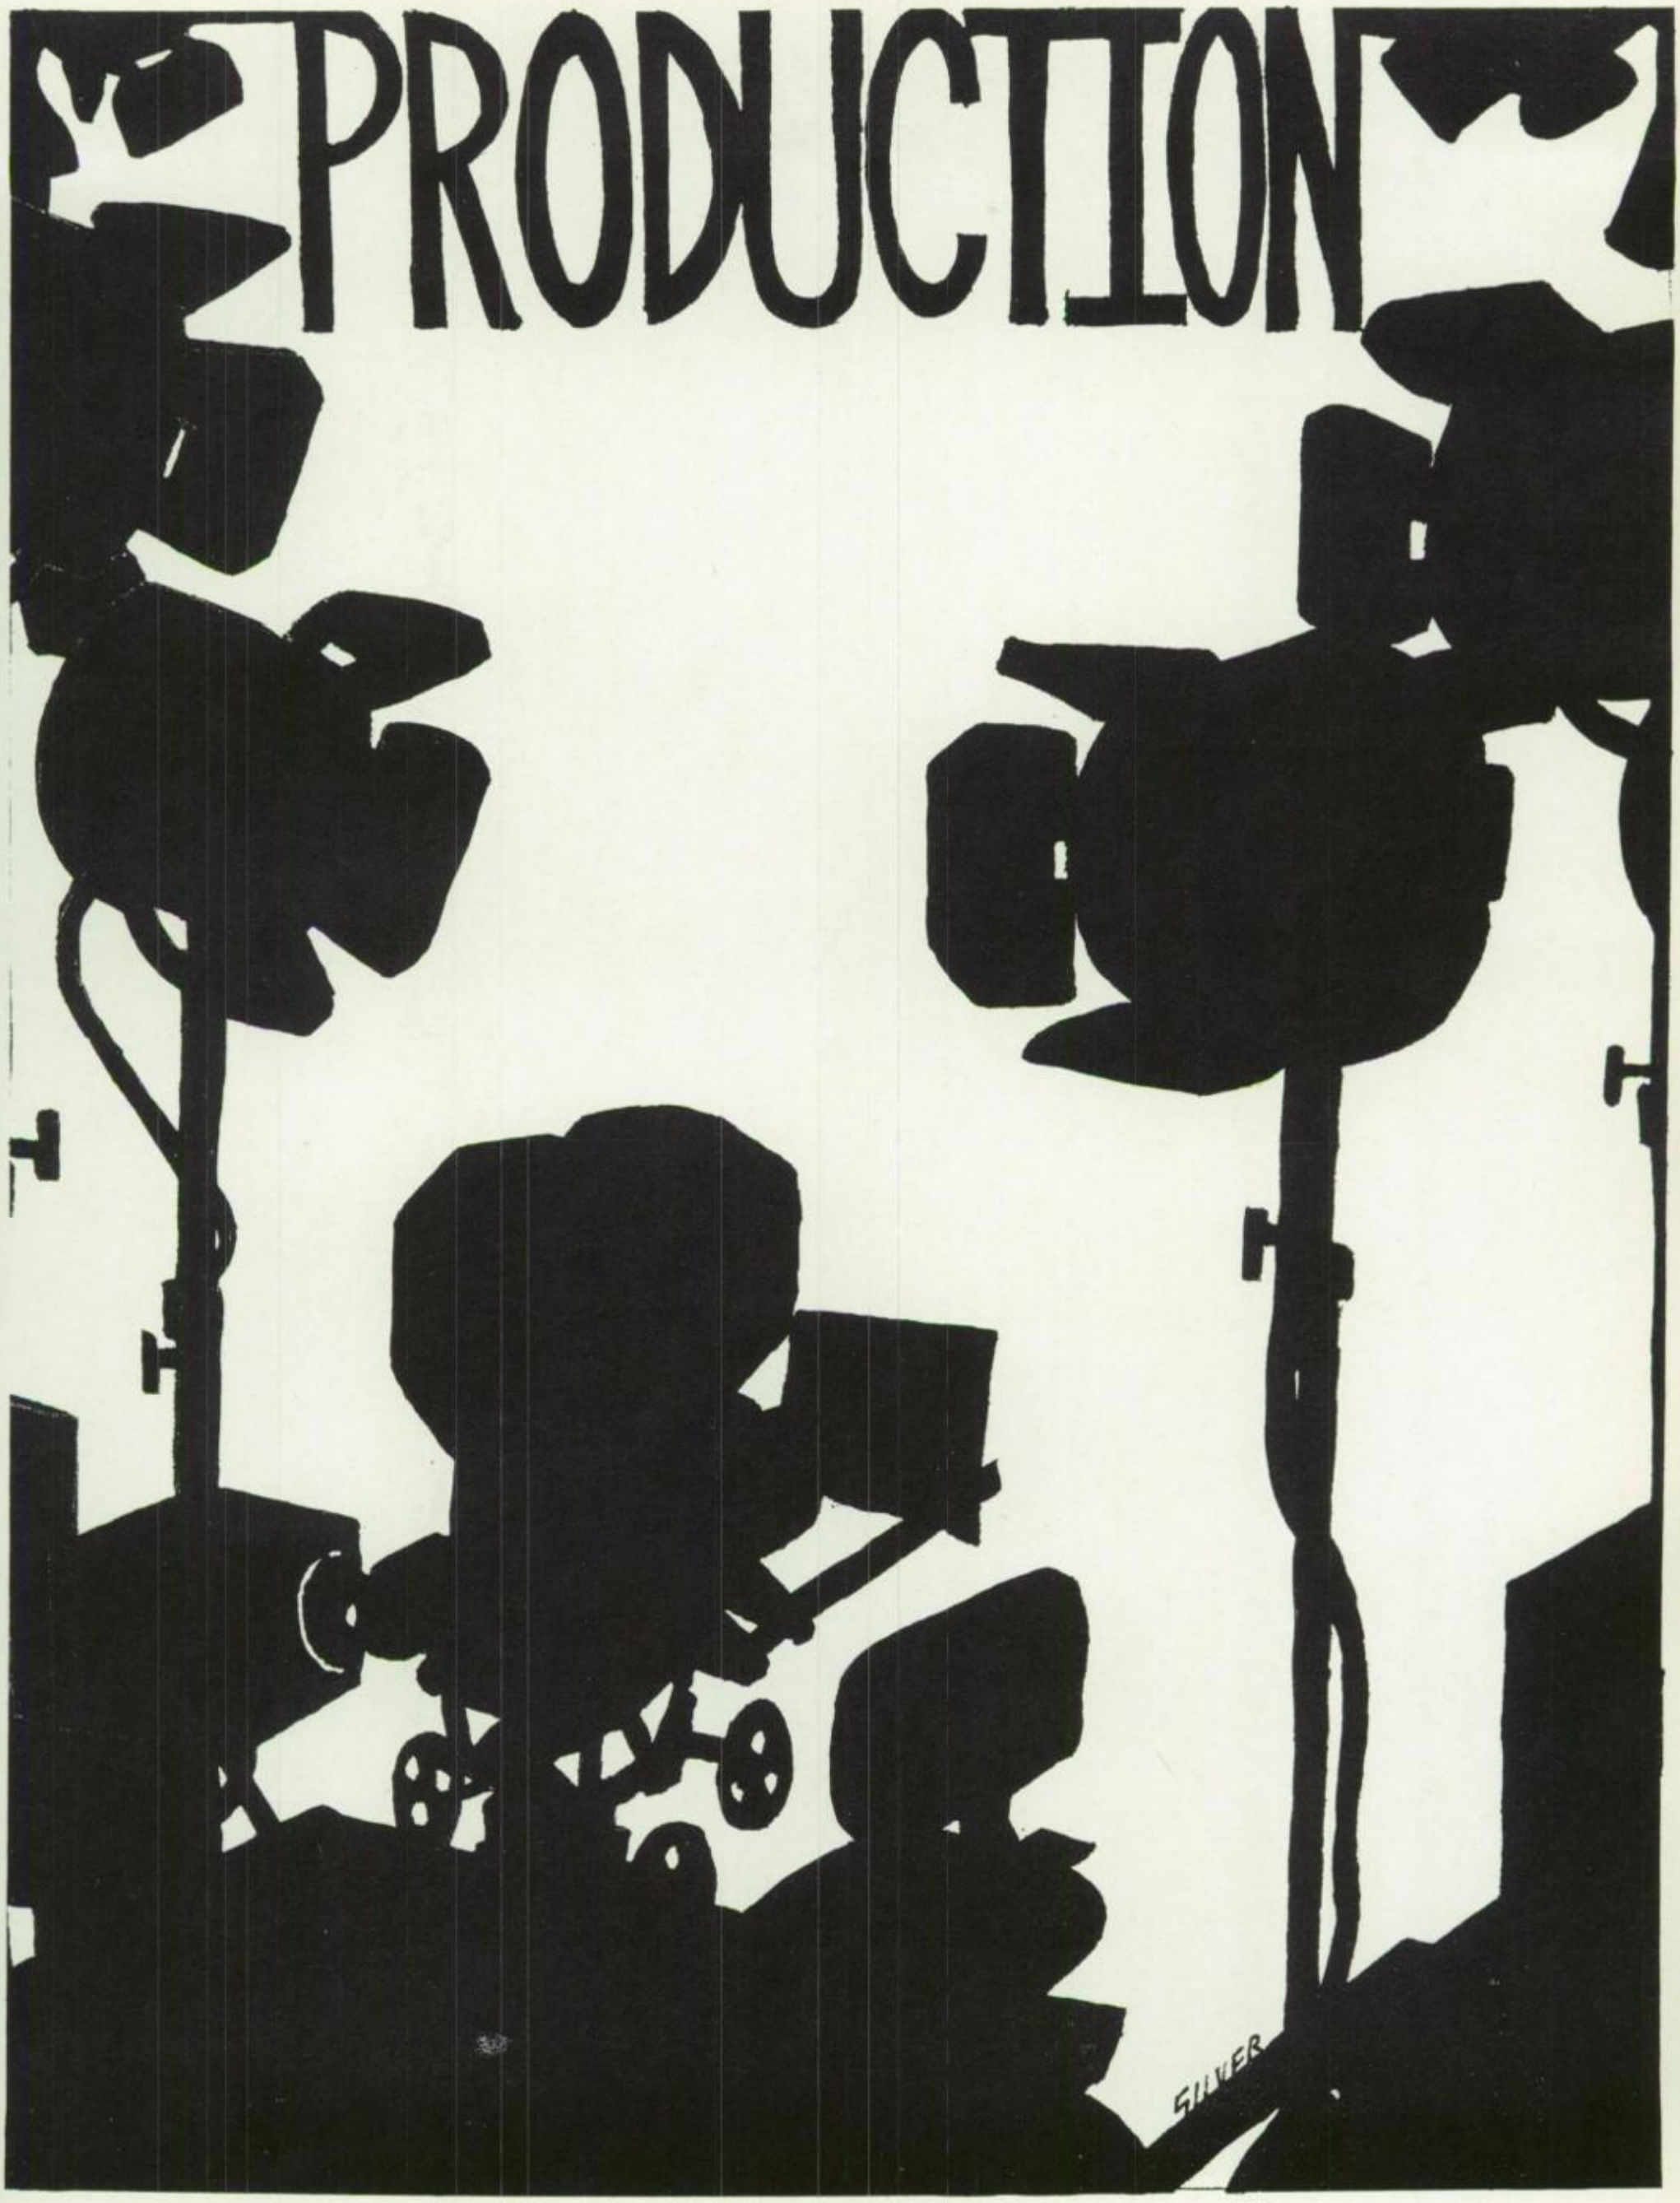
PRODUCTION



For Your Eyes Only

This year's staff led by editor-in-chief Pam Carlos and advisor Mrs. Eastman published one of the most innovative yearbooks in recent years, using movies as a theme. It required much time and creativity to print this book only for the eyes of the Hackley Community.

Mrs. Eastman, L. Weiss, E. Massie, L. McCollester, J. Matsuo, K. Sugahara, C. Schulman, A. Ippolito, M. Baten, P. Carlos, M. Khosrowshahi

Help

One word sums up the much-needed Black and Grey Key, help. Under the guidance of Mrs. Nelson and returning president Jackie Merl, the Black and Grey Key members assisted in the administration of Parents' Day, in serving prospective students, and in selling food and drink to the faithful fans of the football team. The group grew to its greatest size ever this year. Next year under the leadership of Meg Cimino, it will once again bring help to those who need it in the Hackley community.

McCollester, A. Seibert, M. Isom, K. Grant, M. Dailey, R. Fitzsimmons.

This year's president Andy Siebert led his many members with the help of vice-president Mark Heyert, secretary-treasurer Gigi Chavez, and advisor Mrs. Dukehart. The president and his staff brightened up the otherwise dreary month of February with pink, white, and red carnations. They also put together an extremely enjoyed and appreciated Trip Day, and a dance loved by all. The tradition of Sports Day continued as each grade competed as a team in various sporting events. The efforts of the Community Council are appreciated by the entire student body.

The Board of Magistrates gives the students an opportunity to participate in the justice system of their school, a unique responsibility. The elected students serving on the board this past year were John Falco, Elizabeth Massie and Jackie Merl. The two alternates were Alex Cheng and Derek Van Eck. Katy Sugahara served as the clerk.

Semi-Tough

This group of semi-tough and really tough athletes under the leadership of co-presidents Gigi Chavez and Robert Loftus has managed to become a more active group in the Hackley community. They led a pep rally which generated immense spirit among the student body and held a successful square dance with the help of Slim Sterling in April.

Bruce Lee

The Karate Club followed in the steps of Bruce Lee and tried to learn at least some of his intricate moves. As one can see by the picture, two of its members have mastered the art to a point. The Karate Club looks forward to a successful future at Hackley and should enjoy one with the amount of enthusiasm already present among the student body.

The Dance Committee filled the Lower School All-Purpose room with not only the sounds of Saturday Night Fever but also with a variety of other musical sounds in early December. Many students came and "boogied" to the various records, enjoying themselves immensely.

Student Teaching involves personal interaction between the student teacher and the lower school student. Student Teachers dedicate much of their free time during the school week to helping the lower school students. They organize a yearly Halloween costume party for them and do numerous other things which the students enjoy.

The Wiz

Headin' for Broadway

The Hackley Drama Group, a talented bunch of entertainers produced two plays this year, Woody Allen's Play It Again Sam and a Middle School production of You're a Good Man Charlie Brown. They were both tremendous successes. Play It Again Sam is considered to be one of the finest performances ever to be given by the Hackley Drama Group. Rob Crispi, Amy Kupferberg, William Jelinek, and Mark Isom made the play a huge success. Cameo appearances by Sarah Williams, Liz Massie, Emily Gerber, and Jamie Rosenberg added several extremely humourous instances. You're a Good Man Charlie Brown, under the expert direction of Mr. Phillips and Mrs. Eggers, proved to be another Hackley stage success. This group of wonderful entertainers brought much enjoyment to the Hackley hilltop.

This is one of the many newly-formed Middle School clubs. This particular group meets after school to develop their artistic skills. During this time, they have the opportunity to experiment with new types of artwork or to catch up on the work they must do for class each week under the coaching of Mrs. Buessow.

The French Club has made the connection to the menagerie of clubs on the Hilltop. They were invited to a French Day at Edgemont High School and so began their existence. The club emerged victorious from a competition and won a trophy. The A.P. French students who made up the club also performed Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs in French with Julie Matsuo starring as Snow White and the other students as the dwarfs and the wicked witch. Mrs. Eastman, the "coach" of the club, has great hopes for its future.

This year's Model U.N. left for Harvard in December led by their inspiration and guide Mr. Schneller. They left representing two countries, Austria and Norway. They engaged in diplomatic discussions and at times heated debates with students from other schools representing other countries. The weekend was truly enjoyable as the participating students met many new students and learned much about the complicated dealings of the United Nations.

In the afternoon, Middle School students gather to play the popular game, Dungeons and Dragons. One student acts as dungeon master and the other students try to find their way through intricate mazes without being attacked by dragons.

The Meetings of the Minds

The Mental Olympics team participated in only one meeting of the minds this year and they emerged victorious. They collaborated with the great minds of the Middle School in solving problems and abiding by their slogan, "It may not look impressive, but it works." They constructed an amazing contraption and look forward to future meetings with other great minds in the coming years.

The boys in the band, and the girls too, did a terrific job this year. The band started a new tradition of playing at football games every Saturday, and they injected a great deal of spirit and enthusiasm to the crowd. They entertained the student body throughout the year with frequent concerts which were thoroughly enjoyed. They also made a trip to the World's Fair in May, a trip which they loved. Mr. Morris, their fearless leader, has led the band to new heights and traditions.

The sound of music has once again risen from the chorus this year. Not only has the hilltop been graced by the melodious sounds of the chorus but the rest of the world had the opportunity to hear them when they traveled to the World's Fair in Tennessee in May. Ms. Victoria Harrell has contributed greatly to the new notice the chorus has enjoyed this year and with her continued support and the enthusiasm of its members, the chorus should enjoy greater success in the coming years.

What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?

1964 — We are born! * L.B.J. is President and students are beginning civil rights protests * The Beatles invade America * Shakespeare celebrates his 400th anniversary * Viet Nam, the first bombs were being dropped * The young generation was finally stepping out.

1965 — Men start to grow long hair while we still are having problems styling ours * Involvement in Viet Nam escalates. We start learning to walk * The times are-a-changing * Malcolm-X is shot! * The Beatle phenomenon spreads.

1966 — Sexual freedom and nudity were shocking the "older generation" * We are into the "Terrible Twos" * Skirts are growing noticeably shorter * We begin making our way outdoors and into sandboxes * Civil rights protests become more widespread * The big event of most of our lives is getting toilet trained * We begin moving up and out.

1967 — This year is the beginning of the psychadelic era! * People are on the move up and out * We are beginning to attain poise, charm, and confidence * The peace movement is growing and growing * Flower children are making their claims on society * We begin to wonder what the words "Hippie" and "commune" mean * Some of our more "advanced" grade members make their way into nursery school * There is talk of revolution.

1968 — We go on into nursery school * Martin Luther King, Jr. is assassinated * Robert Kennedy is assassinated * Students take over and radicalize many college campuses * Richard M. Nixon wins the election * Our daily lives are filled with important events such as birthday parties, day camp, and fights with brothers and sisters * The world is changing but we remain happily oblivious.

1969 — We put the first man on the moon! * One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind * We are busy making our own giant leaps as we enter kindergarten * Real school for the first time * As we learn to live in harmony with our peers, the legendary Woodstock is taking place * Richard Nixon enters office and we push onward in the direction of the first grade.

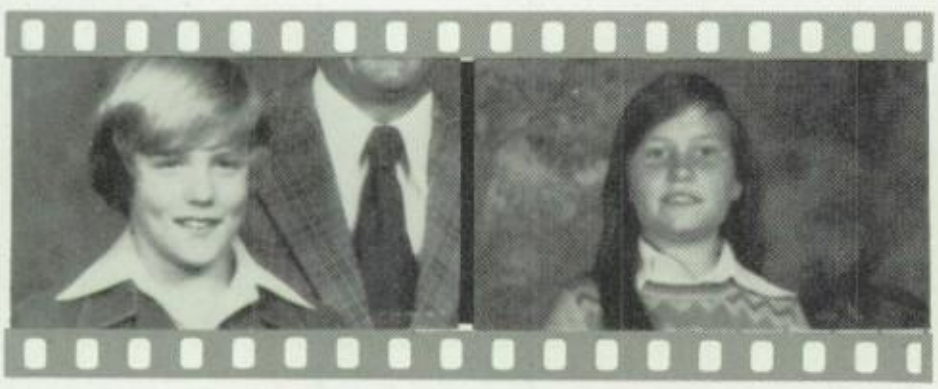
1970 — the sixties are ending and a period of relative peace seems to settle over America, yet the war in Vietnam still rages on * The call of the generation is back to the land, and communes and natural food fads were sprouting up all over * We are busy choosing lunchboxes and getting over the shock that now we are in a real school just like the big kids.

1971 — We arrive in second grade with Chris A. Davids, Derek, Doug, Vicky added to our budding senior class * Across America, the country is slowly retreating into conservatism * Youth is no longer vehemently angry and rebellious * We are starting to come into our own.

1972 — The Beatles break up * Nixon wins again * We are very much immersed in the typical lives of all seven year olds * Third grade continues on as we move on towards our senior year.

1973 — The Watergate scandal erupts*The new 3rd grade is thrilled by the arrival of four new girls: Gigi C., Julie M., Maria S. and Marcia L. escorted by Larry J.*The energy crisis comes into view causing record breaking gas lines*We pass through the 4th grade listening to most of our parents rant about "that awful Nixon".*The troops are removed from Vietnam.

1974 — We get to watch President Richard M. Nixon formally resign from his post, or rather our parents make us so that we can witness history*We enter Fifth grade with our new acquisitions, Mark I. and Gary K.*We get our first taste of vivacious teaching with lovely Ms. Wofford*We ignore current events and concentrate instead on what the Middle School will be like.

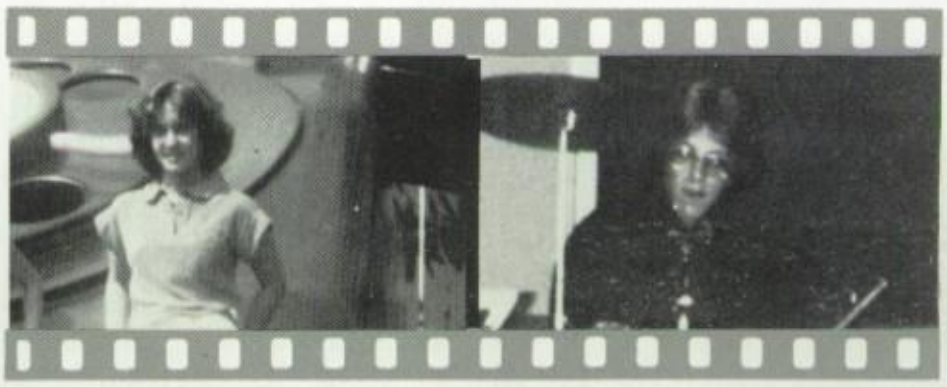


1975 — We became the first Sixth grade class to enter the Middle School in Hackley history*With us, we introduce Kim K., Peter O., Adam F. and Barry K.*Ford is the President and officially pardons Nixon*A fascinating 6th grade camping trip, particularly when Sarah Malm fell into an unmentionable substance — definitely a unique episode to mark our first year in the Middle School.

1976 — The Bicentennial is upon us and many of us go to see the Tall Ships*Jimmy Carter wins the Presidential election*As for us, most of our time is spent torturing the new science teacher, Mrs. Carr and killing off the majority of the science room animals*We went on Mr. Dukehart's legendary Washington trip and brought with us a tremendous new twelve comarades: Pam C., Susan B., Marc D., Alex C., Ben B., Larry Z., Jackie M., Toshi S., David P., Phillip G., Richard S., and David B.*We were halfway through the Middle School*We learned our Alma Mater from dear Mr. Hyun (he-understand) and had fond memories of Marc setting fire to his foot in science.

1977 — We make it to the eighth grade and we are lords of the Middle School — big stuff!*Carter takes office*We add five girls and three boys to our swelling ranks: Leslie W., Lalla McC., Ingrid S., Sarah W., Liz C., Robert L., Jody T., and John C.*We go on a rather wild picnic in which Mrs. Carr chases us and gets lost in the woods*We prepare ourselves for the long runway: the Upper School.

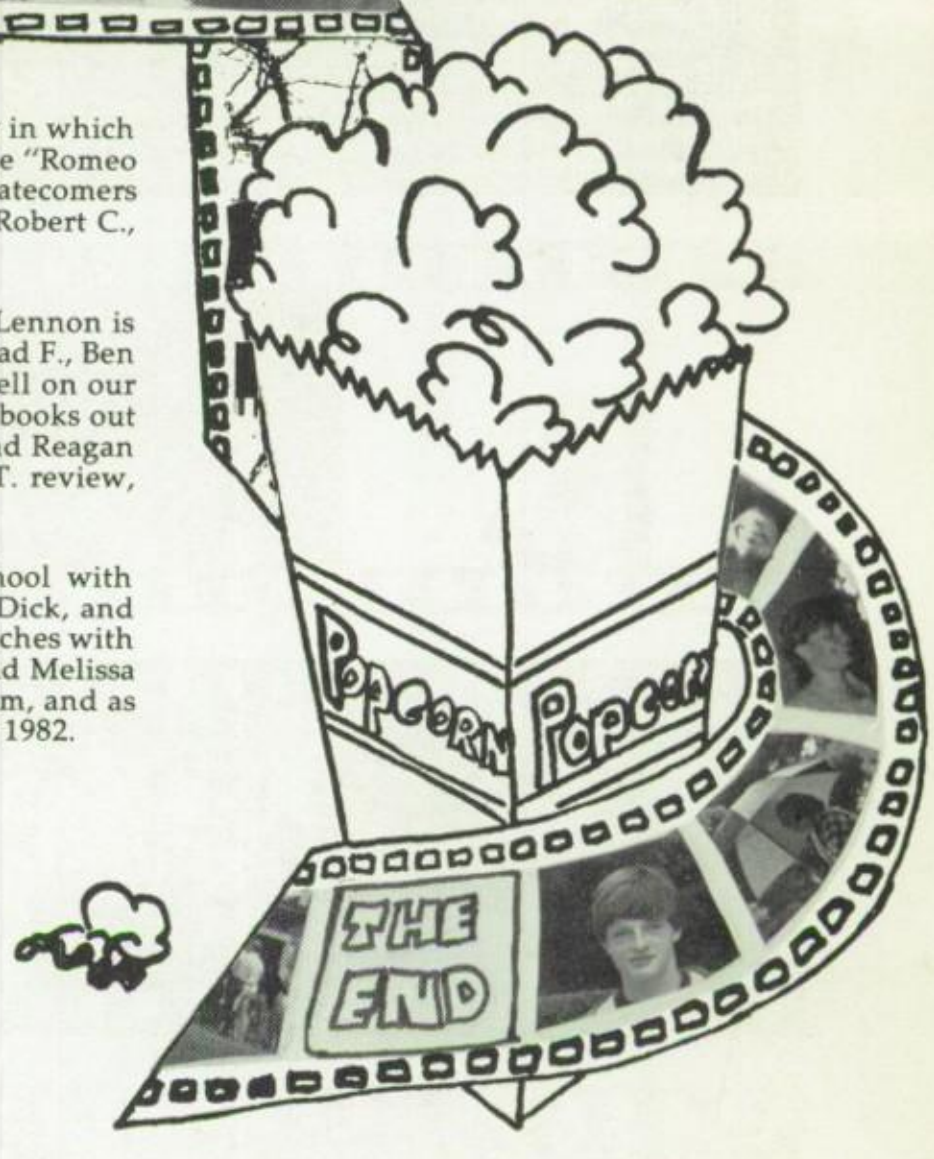
1978 — We are introduced to the Upper School, Mr. Van Leer and Anthropology all at the same time — a terrifying experience*We are swamped with newcomers as our class size doubles: Liz M., Kelly McB., Maura G., Andy S., Roland F., Andrew W., Crispin C., Michael M., Allen Y., Jason T., Bill M., Mel P., Karen W., Charlie P., Alessandra I., and Laurie G.



979 — The energy crisis is once again going strong*We have our first Fast Day in which ve raise a large amount of money by not eating — it was real hard*We go to see "Romeo nd Juliet" and are very verbal in our comments during the film*We add a few latecomers o the class: Rachel S., John F., Lucia P., Marty R., Melissa B., Bob L., Sam V., Robert C., Mehrad K., Eric H., Malaak S., Diana M., and Rudy*Mr. Russell's last year.

980 — We are blasted by P.S.A.T.'s, S.A.T.'s, and college paraphernalia*John Lennon is ssassinated*We acquire Andrea S., Kelly Q., Robert F., Charlie D., Linda C., Brad F., Ben ., Maureen F., Michael K., and Madoc R. as are almost last members*We are well on our vay now, being the first class to pull a "Junior Prank" by taking almost all the books out f the library — a crime for which we paid dearly*The Hostage crisis erupts and Reagan s elected*We get ready to step into the senior spotlight and away from S.A.T. review, the most important academic year," and the muddy Junior parking lot.

981-82 — Senior Privileges*Reagan takes office*We are at the head of school with ragedy papers, more tests, college applications, Shamlet in assembly, Moby Dick, and enior slump (much to the despair of our teachers)*We get our last finishing touches with he famous Italian Stallions, Gregorio N. and Stafano B., Jeanne and Ann L., and Melissa .*We leave our mark on the school although we forget to clean the lunchroom, and as 982 comes around we move up, out and away from Hackley*This is the Class of 1982.



964 — J. Callahan, V. Wank, K. Weisenseel, M. Baten, M. Isom, K. Quinn
965 — M. Lerner, R. Foster, E. Massie, G. Chavez, A. Ippolito, R. Loftus
